

The woman—Theresa Strella—who shot Charles Stiles, the caller of the Call Board, at the Palmer House, in Chicago, last July, is now on trial in the Criminal Court, before Judge Gardner, for murder.

Tar bears seemed to have had things pretty much their own way on the New York stock board yesterday. The so-called "granger shares" and those of the anthracite coal roads were particularly depressed, and the brick war in freight and passenger tariffs in the northwest added to the general weakness of the market.

SOME candidates, when they find themselves defeated, quietly accept the situation and go about their business as though nothing unusual had happened. There are others, however, who fail to see the true cause of defeat and try to console themselves by prating about voters being bought, employers bulldozing their workmen, and "fraud in the count." But the people are hard to fool in this little matter.

The judges and clerks of the late election in the first ward have an opinion that there was an error in the return they made of the votes received by each candidate. According to their idea they neglected, in the hurry and excitement of the occasion, to take into count the straight Democratic ballots found in the box, which numbered in the neighborhood of 70. These were all straight tickets, according to Mr. Thomas and Mr. Williams, the two clerks, and, therefore, could not affect the result in any way. It is possible that this mistake was made, but no sensible person has for a moment imagined that there was any fraud in the matter, although the defeated candidate for senator has made a good many assumptions about the necessity of having "a fair count." It is now reported that legal steps will be taken to have a recount of the ballots, to which no one can have the slightest objection. There is one legal way to do this and the only reason why anything has been said in opposition to a recount was because the plan which it was proposed to adopt was illegal in every way objectionable.

Airaid of the Democrats.

A special to the New York Tribune from Scranton, Pa., dated Nov. 16th, has the following significant information:

The Lackawanna Iron and Coal company, one of the leading iron industries of the country, has closed one of its large rolling-mills and has ordered the suspension of a large number of its workmen. Its other works are to be run on half time from to-morrow. The company gives as a reason for its action a desire not to accumulate surplus stock in the face of the Democratic congress of 1893. Upward of 3,000 men are affected by the order.

The Bourbon press can now go to work to show that this great corporation has voluntarily decided to abandon a profitable business out of pure spite.

Talk about patriotism, fidelity to party, and all that! There is no instance of political virtue that should not be exposed. A convict marked his life to escape from Blackwell's Island to vote the Democratic ticket, and then surrendered himself after the election. No wonder there was a tidal wave.

General Logan says that when he was out in New Mexico he thought he would buy some of the ancient pottery of the Pueblo Indians, with which that region is supposed to abound. He called for some 300 years old, and presently they brought him a piece, which was actually red hot from the kiln.

On EX-SENATOR WILLIAM BARNES, of Connecticut, signalizes his resurrection to official life by calling Senator Hawley a liar, a falsifier, and a lot of other things strictly Democratic in their character and bearing. Mr. Barnes' election to congress is not without its moral. It proves the folly of trying to hammer a nineteenth century idea into the head of an eighteenth century Bourbon.

The New York Churchman says: "There was a very symbolical wedding in one of the fashionable churches of New York the other day. All the women who, in violation of apostolic precept and churchly propriety, came to the church without covering on their heads, were shown up to the front pews. The reverend bridegroom's clerical brethren were bridgedown the back seats. It is supposed that the intention was to symbolize the supremacy of the world over the spirituality."

Mr. BURNETT, the young terror of the Nelson troops, was half through a serenade from Bette at the concert in Boston Saturday when his nervousness, which was at all times painful to his listeners, apparently caused him to lose his place. He stopped short, tore his music into two pieces, and flinging it on the floor with the impatient gesture of a petulant child, stalked rapidly off the stage. The audience laughed at first and then applauded. After a time Burnett reappeared, pointed to his throat, shrugged his shoulders apologetically, and sang Welling's ballad, "Some Day," better than he has ever sung anything here.

A Washington special to yesterday's Inter-Ocean says:

The Sunday Capital of today publishes the following sensational story. The matter creates considerable comment here, and is given for what it is worth:

"It is not generally known even in the community where he lives that Mr. Storey, the veteran and well known editor and proprietor of the Chicago Times, has for some time been in a mental condition which is fast approaching, if it has not already reached, actual imbecility. It has been the cause of much comment that the columns of his journal have for the last year exhibited varieties of the most extraordinary character, and that its influence has perceptibly declined as well as its circulation. During the year of the last World Exposition at Paris Mr. Storey, with his wife, was making a tour of Europe. He was not in very good health, having had two shocks of paralysis prior to leaving America. At Bern, Switzerland, he had a third one, but was attended by Dr. Brown, Seguard, and so far recovered that he was able to return to the United States some three months later. Since that time he has declined in his own in other respects. During the greater portion of the time since his return he has been guided by the advice of 'spirits,' the principal one of these mentors being an undeveloped Indian girl, possessed of a prodigious amount of information as to sanitary engineering, the management of newspapers, and other modern matters. Mr. Storey is engaged in the construction on Grand boulevard of a marble palace which will cost three-quarters of a million dollars, which has been several years in progress, and which will not be under roof before the close of the coming year. At the present time he gives but little attention to his newspaper, which since he ceased to give it his personal oversight has inevitably improved. He passes his time in pondering over the directions of his spiritual guides, in relating to his listeners for the thousandth time what the 'spirits' have done for him, and in mysteriously planning as to what he will purchase when he shall visit Europe for the materials for the furnishing of his new house. It is a pitiful outcome of a life which has been among the most energetic, influential, and audacious in the domain of journalism. To-day a decrepit old man, babbling over the memories of his youth, carelessly reiterating his puny experiences under 'spirit' control, anticipating, with many a break in speech and recollection, a visit to the shops of the Palais Royal, and a residence of years in the marble palace; with shrunken eye, palsied hands, and thoughts which come and go, driven here and there by chaotic agencies, such as the one grand man who presided over the destinies of the great newspaper in the west, and whose ability, boldness, and energy made him a commanding figure of the age."

Hos. WASHINGTON H. BUSHNELL is a lawyer of Ottawa. Recently he was a witness in a lawsuit, and one Henry Mayo was an attorney on the other side. Mayo proceeded to put Mr. Bushnell through the usual course of witnesses; that is to say he cross questioned him, abused him, intimated that he was swearing to a lie, that he was the real culprit and that his family was no better than his deserts, he would long since have been lodged in the penitentiary. If Mr. Bushnell had been a private citizen, he would have been forced to endure all of this in silence, and would have got off the stand, thanking his stars that it was no worse, and firmly resolving that he would not be caught in such a scrape again if he could help it. But Mr. Bushnell was not a business man. He belongs to the profession of attorney, and having been behind the scenes, rightly judged that he knew something about the rights of attorneys and witnesses. So when the suit was over he assaulted Mr. Mayo, and borrowing a revolver, hurled it at the head of the latter, who was obliged to run him out of the city and hide him until the wrath of the great man had cooled. Private and humble citizens will make a note of this, and the next time that a witness is unduly badgered by an attorney, it will be well for him to follow the precedent set by Mr. Bushnell, and searching out the offending attorney, make a target of him. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander in other places. Mr. Bushnell has been attorney general for the state of Illinois, and is recognized as a legal light of influence, and an authority whose precedents are not to be overlooked.

The Career of Kellogg.

William Pitt Kellogg is elected in Louisiana, the only Northern man who has enjoyed an unbroken Southern career in office since the fall of New Orleans nearly twenty years ago. Collector of that port, Governor twice, Senator and now Congressman, he vindicates at least the sagacity of President Lincoln, who found him a delegate to a State convention in Illinois, and made him Chief Justice of Nebraska, Brigadier General, and almost the first Republican steward in the South. He kept his seat in the Senate when Louisiana had been lost to the party by the consent of President Hayes. Kellogg is a clergyman's son from Montpelier, Vt. His wife had one brother in the rebel and one in the Federal army. His old associate, Packard, is still the highly respected Consul of the Government at Liverpool.

The storm which swept over Dakota last week Saturday, was fruitful in new experience to travelers, making their first trip to that section. One of the latter relates his experience of being out all night. The west-bound passenger train on the Dakota Central road, on Saturday afternoon, came to a standstill on the track between Woolsey and Westington, and remained all night on the prairie. Soon after leaving Huron it was discovered that the engine was working badly, and the train progressed slowly, stopping occasionally for repairs. After being out of Huron about two hours another misfortune took place. A west-bound freight was overtaken, with a dead engine and fifteen cars. The engine undertook to make a long run without sufficient water, and found the grades too heavy for such a state of affairs. Conductor Ketchum and his men labored hard with the sick iron horse. It was run back to a point of water on the side of the track, and the conductor and one of the passengers, who volunteered his professional services on the occasion, went into the water up their waists while supplying the boiler. All the time that these proceedings were taking place a fearful blizzard was going on, a swift wind was sweeping over the prairie, accompanied by snow, and the reader can imagine that the work of the train men was decidedly unpleasant. All efforts to go forward proved futile, and soon it was understood by the passengers that they were booked for the night at that point. Then it was about 6:30 o'clock. Conductor Ketchum sent two train men on foot to Woolsey, about six miles east, where they procured a hand car and went to Huron, reaching there about 9 o'clock. It took some time to wake up the round house men and open up the facts to them concerning the blockade. Arrangements were perfected as soon as possible, and a 4 o'clock next morning two engines were brought to the trains and immediately proceeded west to Westington, where the freight train and its engine were side-tracked. But few of the passengers ventured to step out. The music of the wind was howling, and at all fascinations to the passengers were the "mokers" passed the first part of the night in song and story, a few of the number getting in short snaps between pauses. The passengers generally took in the situation without much criticism, the broken-down machine of use of the coal, and the temperature of the coaches was very good for a stormy night, with a cold wind blowing at the rate of fifty miles an hour.

George Alfred Townsend has been reviewing Ben Butler.

George Alfred Townsend has been reviewing Ben Butler. He makes the following good point on him:

Few who now applaud Butler remember that he was the open defender of Oakes Ames in congress during the Credit Mobilier matter; that he was the lion in defense of the back pay, and that he had him and drove him out of congress; and that when President Johnson was asking congress to be a little considerate about his reconstruction policy, Butler was one of those who drove him to the wall, captured the impeachment committee, and did the whole flourish at the impeachment trial. Not long after the impeachment sentence was over Mr. Blaine said to me one day: "If it had not been for Butler, I don't suppose the impeachment trial would have been anything above a burlesque." It was Butler who put the dramatic element into that, of almost all things he ever went at. His career in congress was stormy. He knew how to operate that body with in its committees, its caucuses, and on the floor. He had a formidable reputation, and was always on the aggressive, and between a laugh and a thrust, he generally made his point. With a certain generosity on the outside of congress, he had not much inside.

The Wash. General Offices.

It is now admitted at the St. Louis papers that the general offices of the Wash. Post will be removed from that city to Chicago, and that the change will be made within two or three months. The idea of making the change was first suggested by Jay Gould, and is thus told a reporter by a prominent railway official at St. Louis: "When Mr. Gould was on his way from Omaha to Chicago, A. L. Hopkins, who was in the party, remarked that Mr. Gould was compelled to spend four days out of every six working days in Chicago. 'If that is so,' replied Mr. Gould, 'why not move the offices there?'" and from that conversation the whole idea of making the change was conceived."

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Nov. 20.—The meeting of the grand jury to day had the effect of bringing quite a crowd of strangers to town, and their probable decisions on the several well-known crimes that have been committed in Christian county during the past few months have been the theme of conversation all day. Judge Phillips arrived on the 1 o'clock train and proceeded immediately to the court house, where the grand jury was waiting him. After going through a few preliminaries, the court was adjourned to meet at 1:30 p. m., when instructions would be given to the jury. Long before that hour arrived the court room was filled by an eager crowd anxious to bear the charge to the jury. The judge was very explicit in his instructions and earnestly admonished them to act conscientiously, and without fear or hope of reward. He spoke of the mob that took the supposed Bond outragers out of jail, and urged them to investigate the matter closely. This caused quite a flutter of excitement throughout the assembly, as there were hardly any present but what had a hand in the affair.

New York, November 20.—The trial of William W. Henry Ward Beecher, for breach of contract for failing to complete the "Life of Christ," was resumed this morning. Beecher was called to the stand. He did not remember in 1870 having received, signed or read the paper shown him; nor did he recollect having heard or read a modified copy of it, and he did not believe any demand for copy was made since 1870. He knew they wanted copy, and they knew they couldn't get it. He understood copy was to be furnished them, but there was no limitation of time. He had repeated conversations with Ford & Co., as to the expediency of issuing the book in 1874, when Plymouth Church was invaded and persecuted by various councils (referring to the Congregationalist). The gentlemen of the firm were entirely in accordance with me as to the impossibility of putting out a second volume of the "Life of Christ." The counsel for the plaintiff then declared his case closed, and Sherman renewed his motion to dismiss the case upon grounds already published.

Judge Barrett granted the motion to dismiss. In moving for an extra allowance of $1500 to the defense, Sherman said the real facts in the case were that when the work was suspended the firm had some 10,000 copies on hand, and there was no evidence to show that these cost them 1 cent. Instead of losing money, the firm had made a clear gain of $17,000. Judge Barrett made an order allowing Beecher $250 extra allowance.

Duquesne, Pa., Nov. 20.

The total vote for governor in the recent election, as received by the state department, is as follows: Pattison, dem., 355,191; Weaver, rep., 315,589; Stewart, ind., 43,742; Armstrong, greenback and labor, 23,484; Pettit, prohibitionist, 5,196; total vote, 743,802. Pattison's plurality is 40,202. This is the largest vote ever polled in the state with the exception of the presidential contests of 1876 and 1880.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 20.

The secretary of state has received official returns from all the counties in the state except Cook. These show a total 214,102 votes for General Smith for state treasurer, and 209,990 for Orndorff, 210,530 for Stratton for superintendent of public instruction, and 210,538 for Raab. Including the reported vote of Cook county Smith has a majority of 5,475, and Raab 2,898.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 20.

The stage from Columbia to Wallsville was robbed this morning two miles from the latter place by a single masked robber. There were three passengers: Mrs. Dobbis of Bloomington, Ind., Hon. Moses H. Rhorer, of Columbia, and J. O. Edwards, of Monticello, Iowa. From Mrs. Dobbis about $10 was taken. She succeeded in saving two fine diamond rings by hiding them in her lap. From Mr. Rhorer a pocket book containing money and valuable papers and a gold watch were taken. From Edwards a watch. The last named saved his money by throwing his pocket book under the seat. The mail bags were cut open and rifled of registered letters. The robber refused to restore Rhorer's papers, saying, "A stage robber has no mercy." He took a tap off a wheel of the coach and then disappeared through the woods on foot. He wore a leather mask, and was armed with a long revolver. He cut his right hand badly in opening the mail-bags.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 20.

Chalmers has filed a petition for a mandamus before Judge Wharton, to compel the secretary of state to count his votes in Tate county. He charges that Myers, secretary of state, allowed the returns from other districts to be inspected, but refused to allow any one to see the returns from the second district until they were counted. Chalmers charges that the returns were purposely concealed to prevent any errors being corrected during the ten days allowed by law for making returns, and says the clerical error as to J. R. Chalmers would have been promptly corrected if the returns had not been fraudulently concealed. The commissioners of election of Tate county have sent amended returns showing the votes were cast for J. R. Chalmers and not for J. R. Chambers.

CAIRO, Ill., November 20.

It is reported that the Hon. Wm. K. Murphy, the defeated Democratic candidate for Congress from this, the Twentieth District, will contest the election of the Hon. John R. Thomas, on the ground of fraudulent voting. It is claimed that enough illegal votes can be proven to elect Murphy by about 100 majority.

The members of the Kansas State Temperance union and other temperance organizations will unite in a grand convention in this city just prior to the assembling of the legislature. It is the present belief that Governor St. John is at the head of the movement, which has for its object the stimulation of the friends of prohibition in the legislature. It is claimed that there will be 3,000 delegates present. From the decided expression of the people in the legislature it is feared that steps will be taken for the resubmission of the prohibitory amendment, which it is the purpose of the proposed convention to prevent, if possible. An address on the subject is shortly to be issued by the Temperance Union.

WHEN OLAF FREINT, a painter of Chicago, was picked up from the pavement, after having fallen forty feet from a scaffold, the city physician pronounced him to be dead. The body was placed in a patrol wagon, hauled to the morgue, and preparations were made to hold the coroner's inquest. While the coroner was hunting up his jury, the superintendent of the morgue was disturbed in his book-keeping by hearing some one walking about in the dead room. As he listened he heard a faltering tramp in the corridor, as of some one coming towards the office. His hair began to raise and his body to creep as he heard the door slowly open inch by inch. Turning his head in that direction, he saw a face of ghastly whiteness, in which bloodshot eyes were rolling wonderingly, and the body of the painter stepped into the office and asked why they had put him to sleep with the dead men. The superintendent recovered his senses and sent for a doctor, who examined the man's injuries, and stated that he would be able to return to his work in a few days. A few minutes later three cocktails were quaffed at the expense of the morgue man.

DAVID ATCHISON, who used to be United States Senator from Missouri is now an old and broken man. He is now seventy-six years of age, and in failing health. He was once president of the United States for thirty-six hours, for he was president of the senate. He represented the extreme pro slavery element, and his name to the free soilers was productive of the same results that a red rag is when presented to a bull. Atchison is old now and well nigh forgotten. So do listen strut their brief hour and then drop into oblivion.

ROBT. McCORMICK.

A Baptist Minister's Experience. I am a Baptist minister, and before I even thought of being a clergyman, I graduated in medicine, but left a lucrative practice for my present profession 40 years ago. I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy; "Thomas' Electric Oil" cured me. I was also troubled with horseiness, and Thomas' Electric Oil always relieved me. My wife and child had diphtheria, and "Thomas' Electric Oil" cured them, and it taken in time it will cure seven times out of ten. As an agent it is a cure for the most obstinate cold or cough, and if any one will take a small teaspoon and half fill it with the oil, and then place the end of the spoon in one nostril and draw the oil out of the spoon into the head by sniffing as hard as they can, until the oil falls over into the throat, and practice that twice a week, I don't care how offensive their head may be, it will clean it out and cure their catarrh. For deafness and earache it has done wonders to my certain knowledge. It is the only medicine dubbed patent medicine that I have ever felt like recommending, and I am very anxious to see it in every place, for I tell you that I would not be without it in my house for any consideration. I am now suffering with a pain like rheumatism in my right limb, and nothing relieves me like Thomas' Electric Oil.

Dr. E. F. Cramer, Corry, Pa.

Several weeks ago Judge Greer has had on his docket the personal suit of "World Atlas vs. Purchaser," and after careful consideration he has given the following "judgment," which, like most of his decisions, is regarded as just and right by both plaintiff and defendant.

"DECISION."

Office of Judge of the Co. Court, Decatur, Ill., Nov. 16, 1892. I have purchased after due examination a copy of "Band, McNally & Co.'s Trade Atlas of the World," now represented in Decatur by the Illinois State Agent, George B. Charles. It comes nearer filling my idea of a single reference volume than I have before seen. The statistical information is of unusual interest and variety. The maps are clear and accurate. Its method of presenting facts by colored diagrams is unique and impressive. In case of reference, reliability and completeness it is unequalled by anything of the kind that I ever saw.

THAT new triangular glass show case put at the foot of the stairway on Merchant street, by Shively, the enterprising photo artist, attracts general attention, as novel signs always do. It was an original idea with Shively. It affords him a better opportunity to make a display of his excellent work.

ON yesterday afternoon, before Justice Lowry, Samuel Daniels pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny in stealing about $5 in cash, a silk handkerchief and a pin valued at $2.50 from miners boarding at the Workingmen's Hotel, north of the coal shaft. His bond was fixed at $200, and the prisoner was recommitted to the custody of Sheriff Foster.

THE company which is to present "Esmeralda"—the great domestic play—in this city on Thursday night, comes to us direct from the Madison Square Theatre, New York. Every actor is a worthy artist. The scenery, too, is from New York, and will be a feature. The play ran 350 nights in New York City, and is the third in the album of the great Madison Square Theatre successes. The public may be assured of a fine performance. The sale of reserved seats in large and indicates that the troupe will have a warm greeting.

31 Years of Faithful Service.
Last Saturday, the 18th instant, Mr.
Samuel F. Greer completed his 31st year as Judge of the county court of Macon county, and on the 4th day of next month he will enter upon another four years' term in the same office. The Judge began his official career in this county in 1891, when he received a commission as justice of the peace to fill out a vacancy from W.
H. Bissell, then governor of Illinois; in 1890 he received another commission as justice of the peace from Governor John Wood; in March, 1891, he received a commission as police magistrate from Gov.
Yates; and in November, 1891, he got his first commission as county judge from Gov. Yates; since that year he has held the same office, receiving subsequent commissions in '93 from Gov. Oglesby; in '99 from Gov. Palmer; in '73 from John Early, acting governor, during the absence of Gov. Beveridge; in '77 from Gov.
Cullom, and in a few days he will receive a second commission from Gov. Cullom.
Judge Greer has been a faithful and careful official, and the fact that he has been re-elected so many times and has performed his duties impartially, is the best possible evidence that he is the right man in the right place. He has taken the oath of office for another term, and the same has been sent to the secretary of state.

JERRY M. KELLERER had a hearing before Justice Albert this afternoon on a charge of forgery and was acquitted. After his discharge by the court Sheriff Foester took Kellerer in custody again without a warrant and held him until papers on another charge could be made out. The attorneys for Kellerer protested against the sheriff's action, but that officer paid no attention to their objections, and retained the custody of his prisoner.
Foester does not care worth a cent.

YESTERDAY Dr. McBride was called upon to attend a man who was taken suddenly with fits while at work at the new school house on the convent lot. The man is a painter and was taken with a fit while at work. He was removed to his boarding house on East Main street, where in a short time the doctor brought the young man around all right, and left him to all appearances in good health.

A CATHOLIC revival, or more properly speaking, a Catholic Mission, of one week's duration, will be held at St. Patrick's Church, commencing on Sunday, Dec. 3d. The priests in charge will come here from Michigan. Meetings will be held every day and evening.

A FASHIONABLE party will be given at the elegant residence of Mr. Isaac Shell-barger, on Friday evening, in honor of Miss Vermilion, of Indiana, who has been the guest of Miss Fannie Shellbar-gor for a number of weeks. Many invitations have been extended.

An oyster supper for the benefit of the Hibernian Band will be given at the tabernacle on the evenings of the 28th and 29th. A large number of tickets have already been sold at 50 cents each, and a considerable sum of money will be realized.

$23 to Washington and Return.
There will be a grand cheap excursion from points in the west to Washington city on Monday, Nov. 27th. Fare from Decatur for the round trip, $23. The National Bazaar Industrial Art Expon-sition, for the benefit of the Garfield monument, will be held at Washington from Nov. 25th to Dec. 3d. For further particulars see local ticket agents.

Shipping Calves West.
Colonel Judy, the well-known stock auctioneer, of Tallula, Menard county Ill., says that from around Tallula a great many young cattle, spring calves and yearlings have been shipped this fall to the grazing regions of the north and northwest. He spoke of one shipment of over 1,200, and another of something over 600 calves. The last of the present week Mr. Judy's son will ship about 300 yearling steers. They ship principally to Cheyenne, Wyoming territory, where they find a good sale for their stock. The shipping of calves to the west is comparatively a new experience, and has proven quite successful. For four or five years stock cattle in small bunches have been shipped west, but the shipping of any extensively as this year. The shipping of calves west to the grazing ranches, where it costs but little to grow and feed them, will certainly have a tendency to raise the price of calves here. If it becomes general, it will create a greater demand for stock cattle, and farmers will have another object in view in raising calves than to sell them to the local butchers to be slaughtered.

Tax club organized by Mrs. William Race and Mrs. Bradford K. Durfee, will give the first of a series of parties on Wednesday evening, Nov. 22, at the St.
Nicholas Hotel, dancing to commence promptly at 8 o'clock, music by Professor Goodman's band.

THE MARION TRUST CO. AGAIN.

From the Indianapolis Sun.
The Marion Trust Company, whose advertisement has appeared frequently in former numbers of the Sun is now just sending out notices to the five thousand members of the first assessment or contribution which is in the following words:
"Your contribution No. 1, $20.40, Marion Trust Company, is due. Make all drafts payable to order of Fletcher and Sharpe, bankers, Indianapolis, Indiana, where the deposits of the company are kept and remit to them. Our bankers are instructed to pay out the money, received only on check of the secretary, countersigned by the president and endorsed by the member receiving the distribution and bearing the number of the certificate.
The amount of money received by the above named bankers on contribution No.
1 within 30 days from Nov. 21, 1922, will be equally divided between the members of and month who are entitled to receive the same except the amount to be deducted as set forth in their certificate giving the benefit of their pro rata share which is to be used to pay the contribution of lapsed members.

This contribution is to pay the policies or certificates issued during the month of Nov. 1921, and if all are paid the full amount, each certificate can be paid.
If there are lapses the amount which each member is to receive will be proportionately less, but even if only one half respond each certificate holder of $1200 will be entitled to $600, and we see no reason to expect that they will not receive every dollar then due. As will be seen by notice of contribution, the money is to be sent to Sharp & Fletcher, who are among the best known and most substantial bankers in the city, and to be paid out only when the certificate holder endorses the check calling for it. It would seem that nothing could be fairer or more equitable, and whatever others may do to share pay our contribution and expect our money, and we believe a very large majority of the members will do the same. We know that offers of $250 and upwards are being made, and refused by policy holders whose certificates fall due this month. These men at least believe the company and the plan good, for men do not throw away such sums when they know it.

There are 63 members of the above company in Decatur, who hold from 1 to 5 shares each.

A Word to Parents.
Recently a reporter has been conversing with several physicians with reference to the difference, if any there is, between diseases known as "Scarlet Rash," "Scarlet Fever" and "Scarlatina." All interviewed say there is no difference except in name, and that one is equally as contagious as the other. There are several cases of scarlatina in the city, and parents should be watchful and not expose their afflicted children to those of their neighbors. Dr. Barnstead was one of the physicians asked if there is any difference between scarlet rash, scarlatina and scarlet fever, and replied substantially as follows: "There is no real difference between scarlet rash and scarlatina or scarlet fever, the last two names mean exactly the same; that scarlet rash is scarlet fever and nothing else, only in a milder form than those severe cases which the people usually regard as characteristic of this disease, cannot be too emphatically stated. They are all one and the same disease and very contagious, and those who think otherwise have no right to endanger the children of their neighbors, and should not be permitted to do so."

Talking Temperance
It seemed from the size of the crowd that all Decatur was out at the tabernacle last night. A greater number of chairs were provided for the multitude and yet scores had to stand up at the rear of the room. The speakers as usual were Hughes and Ward, and at the close many went forward to sign the pledge. The entire stage was occupied by the choir of 20 voices and a band of small boys who sat upon chairs provided for the occasion.
A general interest in temperance matters has been awakened in all parts of the city by the persistent efforts of Hughes and Ward. They talk earnestly and plead, not for prohibition, but for the new beginners, moderate and steady drinkers to come to a halt, sign the pledge, pin on a red ribbon and be men. Wearers of red ribbons about town are steadily increasing in numbers. Meeting again to-night.

Champaign Sugar
A telegram from Champaign states that the manufacture of sorghum sugar at that place closed on Saturday last, the whole crop of cane having been secured and used. The remarkable results resulted from the weather, and many differentiated together visitors from many distinct states, and one official representative of the French Government. Careful records have been kept showing a sample that twelve and a half acres of early orange cane, weighing when stripped and range cane, weighing when stripped and topped twelve and a half tons to the acre, will yield per acre of fine sugar 300 pounds, which sells readily at 85 cents, and 16 gallons of molasses, worth 40 cents.
This new departure in sugar making will increase the agricultural wealth of the State many millions of dollars. We notice in exchanges that this new industry in Illinois is attracting the attention of sugar makers in the South who ridicule the idea of making sugar in the North; but by and by they will give the enterprising their respectful attention, for they will have to compete in the sale of sugar as good as they can offer to the trade.

MR. W. R. BUCKMASTER, of the Pacific Express Company, went to Ement yesterday and swore out warrants for the arrest of Bill Conard and James Mc-Intyre, for the theft of a keg of beer from the depot platform at Millmone on Sept.
22d. After one witness had been examined Conard pleaded guilty, and in default of bail, was sent to the county jail at Monticello. McIntyre waived an examination and gave bond for his appearance at the next term of court. The empty keg was found buried in a barn on the premises of McIntyre. The express company have been frequently annoyed of late by petty pilfering in this vicinity, and are determined to prosecute to the full extent of the law all such cases.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Dr. Davies has returned from a visit to Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Milne arrived home from Clinton to-day at noon.

C. W. Boardman, of the H. & St. Joe, arrived in town this afternoon from the east.

Mrs. Herb. B. Bartholomew and Mrs.
Fred Bartholomew are home from their visit among relatives at Elmhurst.

L. D. Allen will return to St. Paul, Minn., this week. He will leave to-morrow night, going by way of Chicago.

Prof. Leonard will not return to Decatur this winter. He is in New York engaged in mercantile business.

Mrs. A. M. Fairchild departed for Toledo, Ohio, last night on a visit to relatives. She will probably pass the winter in Pennsylvania.

C. B. Prescott, the music dealer, left on the noon train to-day for Pekin, on business. He will be absent two or three days.

Gen. Charles Black and Mr. Blackburn, both prominent attorneys of Danville, were in the city to-day. These gentlemen are for the plaintiff in the Zink-Pink case.

Frank Batteiger announces that the first grand ball of the season will be given by the Harmonia Club at Guards Armory on Christmas night. Select your costumes.

Mrs. S. M. Irwin is having his dwelling house on North Main street ornamented with a new tin roof, the shingles being covered with the same. Howard Tucker has the job in charge.

Peter W. Williams, the well-known carpenter, who resides in the second ward, is entitled to wear the belt as the champion producer of mammoth celery in Decatur. Those samples he has shown are proofs of his ability in this line of garden truck.

John C. Montgomery, one of the accused in the Emma Bond affair, was in Decatur for a few hours last night, on business connected with the approaching trial of the case, which will probably be called at Taylorville next Monday. He says there is no undue excitement about the trial and that reports in circulation are greatly exaggerated. In all probability if Montgomery, Pettis and Clement are indicted they will endeavor to secure a change of venue, and if they succeed possibly the case will be ventilated in the Macon county circuit court. Montgomery returned to his home near Grove City on the early train this morning.

A Promising Actress.
Not many years ago, a young girl of beauty and intelligence was suddenly thrown upon her own resources and compelled to look about for some means of support. As she inherited from her father marked literary ability, her first thought was to turn this to account. Beginning with a few modest sketches in the local papers, her stories found a welcome in some of the best magazines in the country, and the young writer was on the high road to literary fame, when chance made it possible for her to realize a long cherished ambition for a histrionic career.
She made her debut just four years ago, and since then her progress has been rapid enough to astonish even the most sanguine of her friends. The most competent management and dramatic critics assert that of all the young female stars now before the public, the most prominent is Bertha Welby. She will appear at the opera house in Decatur Thanksgiving night, in "One Woman's Life," supported by a strong company.

MARRIED.
In Blue Mount township, Macon county, Ill., Nov. 15, 1922, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. C. Powell, Miss Emma Johnson and Mr. Frank M. Martinez, of Jacksonville, Ill. 16

After the ceremony about fifty couples partook of a most elegant supper, which all seemed to enjoy to the full. The following is a list of the presents: China tea set, Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Livingstone; pair towels, Miss Ida Jordan; 20 yards carpet, Mrs.
W. Falconer; glass cake stand, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Jordan; glass bread dish, Miss Marie Falconer; pickle dish, Frank Falconer; butter knife, Mr. and Mrs. E. R.
Moffett; table linen, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Daniels; majolica ice cream pitcher, Miss Mollie Harbert; library lamp, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Scroggins; silver cake basket, Miss Mary and Frank Williams; set gollete, Mrs. W. Falconer; bed spread, Linn & Scruggs; glass pitcher, Mr. and Mrs.
F. Falconer; set silver spoons, F. A.
Brown and wife; pickle dish, U. G. Deakins; paper case, J. H. Deakin; glass water pitcher, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Crawford;
